

Abstract of the Disclosure

A symbiotic fungus is artificially introduced to a plant. The symbiotic fungus is a filamentous fungus of a biologically pure culture. The filamentous fungus belongs to genus 5 Neotyphodium and produces one chanoclavine as a final metabolic product thereof. The plant with the filamentous fungus introduced therein has resistance to pest and does not show toxicity to livestock.